

VISIT HOBBYFARMS.COM TODAY

The 2009 International Lusitano Collection gallops into Florida

Auction gives buyers the rare opportunity to view the horses on American soil.

February 7, 2009

During the weekend of February 19-20, 2009, members of the equestrian community and South Florida social scene will gather at the 111-acre Jim Brandon Equestrian Center in Wellington, Florida, for the second annual Lusitano Collection Auction. The event will indulge guests with lavish cocktails and a gala dinner, courtesy of The Lusitano Collection.

Photo Courtesy: Lusitano Collection

Guests may view and examine over two dozen horses during the week prior to the auction as well as shop at various sponsors' tents. The Lusitano Collection made its United States debut in Wellington during the Winter Equestrian Festival in March, 2008, when buyers came to the Sunshine State from as far as California, Texas, Connecticut, Mexico, Colombia, Belgium, Denmark and Guatemala. It was the first time that such a collection of Lusitanos had been sold on US soil and gave prospective buyers the advantage of acquiring horses that are not available elsewhere in the world. While the Lusitano Collection is a trademark created by five premier world breeders of the Lusitano horse, this year's collection will only include horses from Interagro Farms, the largest Lusitano breeder and exporter in the world and Coudelaria Rocas do Vouga of Brazil.

Dr. Paulo Gaviao Gonzaga, who founded Interagro in 1975, oversees the breeding and training of 700 horses on his historic coffee plantation outside Sao Paulo. He is assisted by his daughter, Cecilia Gonzaga, who heads the stud farm which consists of 20 stallions, many of whom are actively competing successfully in dressage.

Prior to the auction, the horses' rigorous training is initiated under the expert guidance of Director Mauricio Delucchi Borelli and Swedish-born Pia Aragão, Brazilian Dressage Champion. "The objective of our work in the Picoeiro is to have all of our animals achieve international standards of dressage," said Borelli. "We seek to produce a horse capable of performing whatever activity his owner wants him to. I want people to see our horses and dream of riding them. I want the horses we sell in auction to be ridden safely and trouble-free by anyone anywhere in the world."

Aragão adds, "Before a horse is chosen for the auction, it must be disease-free, have its legs x-rayed, pass a pre-purchase exam and be evaluated for ride-ability and quality."

She noted that the four- and five-year old horses that travel to the US for auction have lovely ground manners, load well and could easily compete in dressage at the novice level.

The breed is well known for its exceptional performance in all equestrian disciplines so it is no surprise that Lusitanos from Interagro have been exported to nine countries and trained in jumping, dressage, driving, and even as cutting horses. The Collection presents horses under saddle and includes a selection of geldings and a limited number of mares.

Dr. Gonzaga noted, "Recently rediscovered, the Lusitano horse has re-acquired the prestige it enjoyed in the past centuries as one of the best saddle horses in the world."

For more information about the 2009 Lusitano Collection Auction, visit www.lusitanocollection.com.

Create Your Horse's Very Own Webpage
for FREE

Hot Topics

AllG Issues Forum to Highlight Welfare of Horse

Equine Affairs Underway in California

Extreme Mustang Makeover Victory Named As Westmar to Watch

Alltech World Equestrian Games launches new website

United States Pony Club convention underway

Advertiser Links

Ads by Google

